it quits. Whitsell, 62, has announced that he will be moving out of the village and resigning his position sometime around June 1.

He plans to move to Worden, where he will live on a 20-acre farm.

"I have animals," he said. "I'm raising donkeys, llamas, sheep, goats, chickens, guinea, turkeys and peacocks."

"I have a four-bedroom home (in Pontoon Beach). I've raised my family there, and they're all grown," he said.

"It's just too big for my wife and I."

Whitsell announced his plans during the Board's last meeting when Mayor Jim Denham asked him to head up the preparation for this year's budget.

"I'm going to try to help him get this budget together and then I'm going to resign," Whitsell said. "I thought it better if I just step down and let them appoint somebody."

During the past few meetings, Whitsell joked that he was acting as "parliamentarian," making sure they follow the proper procedures for voting and other matters. "They're going to be all right, they just don't know what to do yet," he said. Whitsell got his start in politics in the 1960s when he started complaining about water conditions in Long Lake at Village Board meetings.

Village to mark deeds of properties with flood-plain violations

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Action to come into compliance with Federal Emergency Management Agency flood-plain regulations almost certainly will lead to a lawsuit, Pontoon Beach Village Attorney Eric Evans told the Board Tuesday.

The Board approved having Evans place notations about flood-plain violations in the deeds of six properties. A notation would make it more expensive or difficult to obtain flood insurance and could make it harder to sell the homes.

Trustee Mike Pagano made the motion to have Evans take the action. The motion was approved unanimously.

During discussion, Evans told the Board that lawyers for the current residents have promised to sue if the village took that action. "I don't want to mislead the Board; it's going to lead to a lawsuit," he said.

Five plead not guilty in Chemetco case

Defendants charged with water act violations, making false statements

By Kerry Smith
Staff writer

Chemetco and five other defendants who are former employees of the copper smelter near Hartford were arraigned Monday at the bench of Magistrate Judge Gerald B.

Cohn. Each defendant was charged with conspiracy under Sections 2 and 371 of United States Code 18. The case charges that Chemetco, acting through its managers and others, continued to discharge pollutants regularly into Long Lake from a secret pipe until the action was discovered by inspectors from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. Discharging of Chemetco pollutants occurred from approximately September 1996 through Sept. 18, 1998.

All defendants pleaded not guilty except for Chemetco, which did not plea; the court entered a not-guilty plea for the manufacturer. Each of the defendants was released.

Minor suspended for bomb threat

GCHS student out for rest of year

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

The Granite City School Board has suspended the student who called in a bomb threat at the high school last month.

The 15-year-old freshman is suspended for the remainder of the 1998-99 school year, which ends June 2.

The board unanimously approved the suspension at its meeting Tuesday night.

"Whenever we discipline students we have two goals in mind: One is to change the student's behavior and the other is to send a message to the student population as a whole that this type of behavior will not be tolerated," said Tom Holloway, administrative assistant for secondary education.

At about 7:40 a.m. April 30, GCHS secretary Kim Woodard received an anonymous phone call that the school would blow up at 11:30 a.m. A Granite City police officer and school security personnel and administrators combed the campus. Students were not evacuated because the school was secured by 11:30 a.m.

During an investigation, police learned that the call was made from QuikTrip on Nameoki Road.

Holloway said that the 15-year-old called after being coerced to do so by another student. That other student was not suspended.

Holloway said school administrators discussed punishing the other student but

Venice Police

• STOLEN VEHICLE: A pickup truck reported stolen was recovered by Venice police early Monday morning.

According to reports, an officer on patrol observed the truck run a stop sign at the intersection of Logan and Baucum. A record check showed the vehicle had been stolen in Silveston, Mo. The two occupants were placed in custody. The case is being investigated by the Metro East Auto Theft Task Force.

• THEFT OVER $300: A tire changing machine valued at more than $1,000 was reported stolen from Ray's Tire Shop, 1430 Broadway.

Police were called to the business at about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday after the theft was discovered.

Madison Police

• DRUG CHARGES: A Granite City resident is facing drug charges after a crack pipe allegedly was found in her possession by Madison police.

Charlene Bouquet, 21, who gave police an address at the Chain of Rocks Motel in Granite City, was charged with illegal possession of drug paraphernalia. Charges of illegal possession of a controlled substance are pending lab analysis.

Bouquet was stopped while walking in the area of 10th Street and Madison Avenue, an area known to police for prostitution and drug sales. While the officer was talking to her, she told him someone had let her off and she was walking home, which the officer knew was eight miles away.

During the conversation, a crack pipe allegedly in her possession fell to the ground. It was confiscated and Bouquet was placed under arrest.

Madison County Court

The following felonies recently were filed in the Third Circuit Court in Madison County:

• Terrance T. Rogers, 18, was charged with aggravated battery of a child by the Edwardsville Police Department. On April 28, Rogers allegedly caused great bodily harm to infant Taylor H. Pinkas by shaking the child. Bond was set at $15,000.

• Daruk M. Zirkelbach, 24, was charged with aggravated DUI by the Collinsville Police Department. According to the charge, Zirkelbach was driving under the influence of alcohol Feb. 19 on Wilson Street in Collinsville. His license was suspended from a Feb. 13 incident. Bond was set at $10,000.

• Lori R. Randall, 37, was charged with theft over $300 by the Collinsville Police Department for incidents between Oct. 20 and Dec. 19. According to the charge, Randall took approximately $385 in cash from the Collinsville Animal Network, where she was a volunteer. Bond was set at $25,000. But Randall was released on her own recognizance.

• Richard W. Liner, 35, was charged with theft over $300 (second subsequent offense) by the Collinsville Police Department. According to the charge, Liner took a lawn mower belonging to Paul L. Hamilton on April 24. Liner was convicted of retail theft in St. Clair County in February. Bond was set at $25,000.

• Richard A. Smith, 41, was charged with unlawful possession of a stolen license plate by the Granite City Police Department for an April 29 incident. According to the charge, Smith knowingly possessed stolen registration plates for a 1987 Ford van. Bond was set at $10,000.

• Esther Green, 20, was charged with deceptive practices by the Granite City Police Department for incidents on Aug. 28-29. According to the charge, Green made out five checks totaling $609.38 to Wal-Mart of Granite City for general merchandise and knew that the checks would not be honored by the bank. Bond was set at $20,000.

• Jeffrey S. Warren, 37, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol by the Glen Carbon Police Department. On April 24, Warren was driving a 1988 Oldsmobile on Illinois 169 in Glen Carbon while under the influence of alcohol, according to the charge. His license had been revoked for a DUI conviction from December 1981. Bond was set at $15,000.

• Bryan T. Jasper, 22, was charged with aggravated criminal sexual abuse for a Sept. 7, 1998, incident by the Madison County Sheriff's Department. According to the charge, Jasper manually penetrated a minor female. Bond was set at $10,000.

• Angela Tisdale, 25, was charged with offenses relating to a motor vehicle by the Granite City Police Department for a March 22 incident. According to the charge, Tisdale was in possession of a Ford Ranger that he knew was stolen or converted. Bond was set at $35,000.

MCT completes bus route takeover from Bi-State

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

With the absorption of the evening No. 5 Tri-City and No. 18 Collinsville Metrobus routes, the Madison County Transit District has completed its takeover of most of the fixed-route bus service in the county from the Bi-State Development Agency.

The only Bi-State routes now operating in the county are Sunday holiday and special service routes such as the Redbird, Blues and Mundy Opera Express routes. There will be no change in the weekday schedule of the Tri-City route. On Saturdays, the 6 p.m. trip leaving MetroLink for Madison County will be canceled, but there will be an alternative trip leaving at 5:47 p.m. All other Saturday trips will remain the same.

No changes are planned to the Collinsville Metrobus routes. "Our decision to transfer this service is consistent with MCT's 10-year program to shift to a lower-cost transit operator," said MCT Chairman and Granite City Mayor Ron Selph. "This change has enabled MCT to expand bus service throughout Madison County over the past decade, and has permitted the Transit District to absorb the continuing decline in federal operating subsidies without a tax increase."

He said MCT's level of service "is only possible because of savings we have achieved."

The latest changes, which took place Monday, are expected to save MCT an estimated $250,000 per year, said MCT Director of Operations Todd Plesko.

Overall, he said, a comparison of bus service costs showed that in fiscal year 1998 the district spent an estimated $7.25 million to provide service. If that service had been provided by Bi-State, it would have cost an estimated $14.73 million.

Plesko said that the district is not likely to take over the other routes because it is still more cost-effective to have Bi-State operate them.

Timetables are available on MCT buses and at regular schedule outlets. For more information call MCT at 931-7433.

Lewis and Clark departure re-enactment is set for Friday

Event marks 195th anniversary of event's start

A re-enactment of the start of the Lewis and Clark Expedition will be held at the Lewis and Clark State Memorial located off Illinois 3 in Hartford beginning at 9 a.m. Friday.

The event will celebrate the expedition's start up the Missouri River 195 years ago. The Lewis and Clark Discovery Expedition of St. Charles, Mo., a well-known period re-enactment group, will have a camp set up on the shores of the Mississippi River.

The group will break camp while a narrow reads from Capt. Meriwether Lewis' 1804 journal describing the original departure of the expedition. The group members will demonstrate rowing and sailing in reproduction boats based on one from the original journey, then will depart. A flag raising, color guard and volley firing will open festivities at 9 a.m.

Members of the Lewis and Clark Society of America Inc. will present background information on the original expedition and stress the importance of the journey's starting point near the memorial.

A presentation on "Early 1900s Army Wash Women" will be featured, as will tomahawk throwing by former U.S. and Australian champion Charles Hendricks, and a dancing exhibition with fiddle accompaniment.

An 11 a.m. news conference will feature representatives from the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency and the Illinois Capital Development Board to update plans for the new Lewis and Clark Interpretive Center that is set to be built near the site.

The event is sponsored by the society and the village of Hartford, and is open to the public. Admission is free to the event.

In case of rain, all events will be held at the Hartford Senior Citizens Center at Delmar and Rand streets.

Granite City man charged in assault 7-year-old allegedly battered

By Mike Heil
Staff writer

A Granite City man was charged Friday by the Madison County Sheriff's Department with two counts of predatory criminal sexual assault of a child.

Timothy Cain, 23, of the 4500 block of State Route 162, first was charged May 3 with one count of aggravated battery of a child. During that investigation, which focused on a 7-year-old child, authorities learned of sexual activity between Cain and the child.

Friday's charges resulted from new information. Bond originally was set at $75,000, which Cain posted. An additional $500,000 bond, stemming from the predatory criminal sexual

Witness: Inmate planned escape by slitting wrists

Man wanted to kill witnesses in murder trial

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

An alleged plot by James A. "Raven" Evans to escape from jail by slitting his wrists and being transferred to Alton Mental Health Center was included in testimony Monday at Evans' preliminary hearing on a murder conspiracy charge.

MADISON COUNTY former cell mates of Evans testified Monday about Evans' alleged recent attempt to murder potential witnesses in the case against him in the 1995 murder of Nekemar K. "Pookie" Pearson. The testimony before Circuit Judge Lawrence Keshner persuaded the judge to find probable cause to hold Evans on four counts connected to the plot to kill witnesses.

Witness William Jenkins of Madison said that Evans was allegedly planning to pay for the "hits" from money from illegal drug sales.

Another witness, Tommie Rounds of Alton, testified Monday that Evans had solicited Rounds to kill Lester Warr and to arrange the killing of Clifford Wheeler.

Rounds also testified about planning with Evans to get paid for the murders and obtaining the gun to kill Lester Warr. Both Lester Warr and Clifford Wheeler may testify in the trial of An alleged plot by James "Raven" Evans to kill potential witnesses in a murder trial included a scheme in which he would slit his wrists and be transferred to Alton Mental Health Center, testimony in his murder conspiracy trial alleges.

Evans in the murder of Pearson. Rounds alleged in testimony Monday that a female friend of Evans gave Rounds a .25-caliber automatic handgun with which to shoot Lester Warr. Rounds and the woman were reportedly under surveillance at the time the gun changed hands. Rounds testified that he later turned the weapon over to Sgt. Brad Wells of the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

Rounds and Jenkins said Evans talked to them in a cellblock at the Madison County Jail.

Evans, 29, was charged March 25 with solicitation of murder and murder conspiracy. When charged, he was in the Madison County Jail after being arrested in January in California on charges of murdering Pearson in 1995.

The March 25 charges state Evans, on March 4, solicited Rounds to murder Lester Warr, father of murder victim Brian Warr, and Clifford Wheeler, a former associate of Evans. Brian Warr was murdered in September 1998. Brian Warr and Wheeler were said to have been present in June 1995 during the beating of Pearson, just before Pearson was taken to Godfrey and shot.

Lester Warr may be a stand-in witness in the case against Evans in the Pearson case, authorities said.

Rounds, 38, testified Monday that Evans had told him of the killing of Pearson. Evans allegedly told Rounds that Evans killed Pearson in revenge for Pearson previously having "stuck him" (Evans) up and robbed him.

Rounds testified that Evans told him about taking Pearson from a barbecue in June 1995 in the 2700 block of Powhatan Street in Alton. Rounds allegedly told Rounds that he beat Pearson, tied him up and put him in the trunk of a car.

Evans allegedly admitted to Rounds that he took Pearson to a secluded area of Godfrey, where he shot Pearson in the head.

Evans allegedly told Rounds and Jenkins that he initially did not think there was anyone around to testify against him in the Pearson case, but that Evans later became aware that Clifford Wheeler, who is in custody at the Illinois Department of Corrections, and Lester Warr were possible witnesses. As a result, Evans then allegedly hatched plots to murder the potential witnesses and escape.

Rounds said he was to have shot Warr and arranged the killing of Wheeler through contacts in a gang.

County nursing home review hearing is scheduled May 27

Pro-home advocates make their case June 17

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Dates have been set for the state's review of the case on whether to close the Madison County Nursing Home, 2121 Troy Road, Edwardsville.

The final status review hearing will occur May 27 in Springfield before the opposing sides get to present their cases on June 17, said County Administrator James Monday. The County Board's Ad Hoc Nursing Home Closure Committee met Tuesday in executive session to discuss its legal options.

"The ultimate end to this is in the court system," Monday said. That may be the county's only option if the state hearing officer rules that the home must remain open.

"The ultimate end to this (nursing home situation) is in the court system."

James Monday
Madison County administrator

Board member William Little, D-Alton, is a member of the ad hoc committee. He said no vote was taken at Tuesday's meeting. "Everything is in the talking stage at this point," Little said. "This was the first (ad hoc meeting for the home) this year, but there will be some information fairly soon. We're trying to come up with the easiest possible solution, if there even is one," he said.

The board voted to close the home last year because of lack of funding and the deteriorated state of the building. However, the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board has been firm in its stance that the home should remain open, primarily because of the lack of available beds in other area homes. The state hearing officer will make a recommendation to the HFPB after the hearing. The HFPB may either accept or reject the officer's opinion. If the HFPB and county still disagree at that point, the county may be able to take the case through the legal system. A number of residents have moved out of the home since this process began.

Durbin seeking funds for safer schools sounding board for Durbin's proposal, which he intended earlier this week to take before a joint congressional committee that is hammering out differences in appropriation bills between the U.S. Senate and House.

The proposal is fueled by the recent shootings in Littleton, Durbin said. He stressed that his plan is not a federal mandate, but a potential resource for cash-strapped schools.

Schools ideally should have one counselor for every 250 students, but in Illinois the number is closer to one for every 780, Durbin said. Counselors also need to address personal issues with students, not just grades, he added, after speaking with several students who were present.

And every middle school should have a violence prevention coordinator, Durbin said. No district in this region has such a position.

"(Middle school) is where violent tendencies tend to erupt," Durbin said.

Some panelists said the problems are seen even earlier.

"I'm seeing the change at the adolescent level," Alton Superintendent Michael Beaber said. "Those are the ones we're starting to expel more often for weapons and guns."

Metal detectors would be installed at individual districts, see fit, Durbin said.

He asked each of the 25 or so people on the panel to speak about the proposal and their own experiences.

Edwardsville Superintendent Ed Hightower said the plan for counselors should be expanded to include social workers, which are in greater number than certified counselors.

O'Fallon High School Superintendent Thomas Bradley said there needs to be a better exchange of information between police agencies and school districts regarding problem youths.

Granite City Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen said another concern is that many new police officers are funded by grants. Once those grants expire, communities must come up with their own funding and sometimes are reluctant to do so.

"I'm hesitant to submit the grant," Ruebhausen said.

In Brief

Man attempts to hang self

A man incarcerated for alleged domestic abuse attempted to hang himself in a jail cell at the Granite City Police Department.

Chiko Motley, 17, of Granite City used his pants to create a noose. He was not able to go through with the hanging because an officer intervened.

Motley was arrested at about 6:45 p.m. May 3 after he allegedly beat and attempted to rip the clothes off a 15-year-old who supposedly was his girlfriend.

A man went to the police department to tell officers what had transpired.

Department officials said they were hoping to obtain charges for domestic abuse, resisting a police officer, aggravated battery and assault.

Department officials do not know why Motley attempted to hang himself.

below the 100-year flood plain. Other homes built later in the Timberlake Subdivision do not have basements.

The village has been battling FEMA for almost 10 years over those and other violations, and FEMA has threatened several times to revoke or place on probation the village's flood insurance status.

The village had sought a letter of map revision, which would have redrawn the 100-year flood plain to exclude all the homes.

FEMA approved four but left six in the 100-year zone.

The other major area of noncompliance is a series of homes on Mallard Road in the Quality Beach Mobile Home Park, where some of the homes are within a few inches of the required elevation. Originally eight homes had been in violation, but several have been fixed.

The village had a contract with the former owners of the mobile home park to pay for the cost of raising those homes when they were sold or a new occupant moved in, and had a bill for one home on Tuesday's bill list, but that was held up along with a new business license for the home until a similar contract with the new owners was signed.

Barr McCabe of Los Angeles has purchased the mobile home park, and has applied for a new business license.

Evans said the contract was being looked at by corporate attorneys and is expected to be signed soon.

Whitsell resigns from Pontoon board

"It was a sewer," he said. "It was terrible. I couldn't sit in my back yard."

"I started going to meetings and they appointed me health officer," he added.

While trying to clean up the lake, Whitsell said, he went to the township and county, but nobody would do anything.

"So I ran against them," he said.

Whitsell was elected first as a Democratic precinct committeeman in 1968, then Nameeki Township clerk, and later township supervisor, and a member of the County Board of Supervisors and the County Board.

"I did accomplish what I was after," he said.

Whitsell was appointed to the Pontoon Beach Village Board in 1984. He filled the remaining term of Village Clerk Mary Warren, who resigned, then he lost the post to Mary Rowden in 1995.

Whitsell later was appointed treasurer, a position that became controversial. In 1997 he ran against and defeated incumbent Trustee Mike Macek.

"I sure hate to leave Pontoon Beach," Whitsell said. "It's been home to me."

under a $50,000 bond Monday afternoon with a pretrial conference date of July 1 and a July 13 trial date set in U.S. District Judge William Stiehl's court.

In addition to Chemetco, defendants include Gary L. Reed, the company's superintendent of maintenance from 1988-93; George J. Boud, Jr., Chemetco's superintendent of maintenance from 1983-86; Roger K. Copeland, the manufacturer's millwright foreman on and before Sept. 18, 1986; Kevin A. Youngman, laborer foreman for Chemetco on and before Sept. 18, 1986; and Bruce W. Hendrickson, Chemetco's plant manager from 1991-98.

Chemetco, Boud, Copeland, Youngman and Hendrickson were charged for violation of the Federal Clean Water Act. Chemetco and Hendrickson were also charged with false statements.

The company had no comment on Monday's arraignments.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

When an individual is involved in an automobile accident and his car is "totaled", the question arises as to how much the insurance company will pay for his vehicle. He may look to his own insurance company to pay for the car, or to the other driver's company if that party is at fault.

In this situation, an insurance company is only obligated to pay "book value" for the vehicle. Often an individual whose car has been "totaled" feels his vehicle is worth more than the company offers. In many cases, the owner of the vehicle will owe more to a bank or other lending institution than the present "book value" of the car. This is because automobiles depreciate rapidly, and the loan balance often exceeds the present value of the car.

Some owners of vehicles complain that they had special features on their car and that the insurance company's estimate does not take into account these items. Others feel it is unfair that the company deducts from its estimate for prior damage to the car.

In one recent case, an owner of a car was struck by a truck in an intersection collision. The truck driver was at fault in the accident, but that driver was uninsured. The car was "totaled" in this collision.

The driver of the car looked to his own insurance company in this case. The owner of the automobile owned $4,500 at the bank as a payoff on his car loan. The "book value" of the car, however, was only $3,200. Therefore, the car owner had to pay $1,300 out of pocket to pay off the balance of the loan.

Repeat domestic abusers is target of proposed law

Haine: It's a good law, but it's not a panacea

By Curtiss A. Hartley
Staff writer

A bill that would increase jail time for repeat domestic abuse offenders awaits Gov. George Ryan's signature.

"I know that the governor is not aware of the need for this legislation, and I am hopeful that he will sign this legislation into law," said state Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville.

Domestic abuse is classified as a Class A misdemeanor, with jail time of up to one year and/or a fine of up to $2,500. A subsequent offense is a Class 4 felony, with up to three years in jail and/or a $25,000 fine. The bill would add a variety of crimes considered a first offense so that abusers could be charged with a second offense and sentencing would be tougher.

The new law would go into effect Oct. 1. The current law states that it takes a prior conviction for domestic battery or a violation of an order of protection to turn a Class 1 misdemeanor into a Class 4 felony.

The new law would add a prior conviction for aggravated battery, stalking, aggravated stalking, unlawful restraint and aggravated unlawful restraint against a family or household member.

Senate Bill 483 last week passed in both the House and Senate. State law requires that the bill be presented to the governor within 90 days, and a governor has 60 days to act on it. A spokesman in the governor's press office said Tuesday that the bill had not arrived in his office, and at that time Ryan had no opinion on the proposed law.

"This legislation will put these criminals behind bars for a longer stay, and it will serve to protect abuse victims," Hoffman said. "I want to put a stop to the increasing number of domestic violence crimes."

"The number of domestic abuse crimes in Illinois and throughout the nation is on the rise. I believe that we need to take action and get tough on these crimes. This legislation is a positive step toward achieving that goal."

Madison County State's

Attorney Bill Haine also is eager to see the new law passed but said it won't be a panacea.

"It will help us get control of a situation that is out of control," he said. "It sends a message to repeat violators that there will be escalating punishment, which we do in other areas of crime. We should do it here."

Haine likened domestic violence to trench warfare.

"It's a difficult arena," he said. "You're changing lifestyles. Often times they're substance abusers with a tendency toward violence."

Carolyn Burden, executive director of Phoenix Crisis Center in Granite City, agreed.

"Women's shelters normally see a number of different women abused by repeat offenders," she said. "When you get someone with an abusive personality, they constantly move from one relationship to another, so it's always a first offense."

"I think it's very good legislation," she said. "We would be very pleased to see stiffer penalties for repeat offenders." By broadening the variety of "first offenses" for domestic battery, the new law allows prosecutors and the courts to penalize repeat offenders, regardless of the nature of the former charge, Hoffman said.

"Appellate prosecutors and state's attorneys would see repeat offenders."

Bowles takes safety fight to Washington

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

State Sen. Evelyn Bowles, D-Edwardsville, took her fight against single-use surgical devices to Washington.

She spoke about her legislation to regulate the re-use of single-use surgical devices May 5 and 6 at a conference sponsored by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the Association for the Advancement of Medical Instrumentation. Bowles told the panel that the public is unaware that critical medical devices such as heart catheters and angioplasty balloons are being used on more than one patient.

"Although labeled 'single-use' devices, these and other medical devices are being reprocessed and re-used," she said.

"This activity is totally unregulated by the federal Food and Drug," she said. Administration introduced legislation in the Illinois Legislature in 1997 that regulates the use of surgical devices. Illinois became the first state to pass such a law.

Bowles said the re-use of single-use devices has become a booming international business.

She is urging the Illinois Department of Public Health to enact stricter rules that would require the informed consent of a patient before a recycled device is used on the patient.

Bowles told the group in Washington that she has proposed two more bills.

SIUE graduates finding lively, wide-open job market

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

This year's graduates of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville may be counting themselves lucky to find a market for their skills and education, university officials said.

"Employers have been very active on campus this year," said Jean A. Paterson, director of SIUE's Career Development Center.

Approximately 1,100 students participated in commencement ceremonies Saturday in SIUE's Vandalia Center.

Job openings are being posted on the Internet, and the school has played host to two job fairs, she said.

She said people with technical skills are much sought after, but so are people with a broader education, with some technical skills and knowledge in addition.

"People in liberal arts are needed, particularly those who also have some computer skills. Employers need people who are able to take what they have learned and apply it," Paterson said.

People with writing skills also find they are much in demand in many fields, said Terrell Martin, director of academic counseling and advising at the university.

Paterson said the active market for graduates arises, at least in part, from a strong economy. She has seen times of economic stagnation when prospective employers were not nearly as active at SIUE or in the area, she said.

She said this is an era when a broad spectrum of students find themselves sought after.

With statewide early teacher and administrator retirement incentives, new teachers are much in demand, she said. Health-care professionals, such as nurses, also are being recruited heavily, she said.

"Of course, business majors are always in demand."

Business major Heather Mueller, 20, said that with the help of the Career Development Center, students are able to establish good job leads in the St. Louis area.

"I know a lot of kids that have gotten jobs that way."

Of the 1,093 people ready to graduate as of three weeks ago, 94 are receiving nursing degrees; 92 will get engineering degrees; 322 are in line to receive education degrees; 200 are getting business degrees; and 395 will receive degrees from the College of Arts and Sciences, university spokesman Greg Conroy said.

Martin said that when students enter as freshmen, some of them tend to show interest in the areas that are most in demand. However, many find after a short time they are not prepared or qualified to pursue those degrees.

Others enter SIUE because they are uncertain about their futures and pick the closest school to home, he said. "Because we are largely a commuter school, a large majority of our entering freshmen are still undecided" on a career, he said.

He advises parents and young people to begin their planning early, because career development is more and more a lifelong process.

"I tell young people to think right now, right this minute, about what they want to do in college," he said.

People who come to school with no clear purpose find less success, even if their first two years are part of a process of elimination, Martin said.

Mueller said she entered SIUE as a chemistry major, only to discover she likes business better. That is the degree she plans to pursue.

Morgan gets five years in 1961 stomping

By Larry Ingram
Staff writer

Mary Morgan was sentenced to five years in prison Monday in the death 37 years ago of her stepdaughter, Michelle Morgan.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY

Circuit Judge Jan Fiss issued the sentence at St. Clair County Court in Belleville. Although she has 30 days to appeal the sentence, Morgan's attorney, Burton H. Shostak, said she would not appeal and Morgan would serve out the sentence. Morgan had pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the case.

Her stepson — and Michelle's brother — George

Morgan, testified Monday morning that Mary Morgan had caused Michelle's death in August 1961. George Morgan is currently serving time in prison.

Detective Kurt Sachtelben brought the crime to light when he spent three years investigating the circumstances of Michelle's death. A former St. Clair County coroner had ruled the death accidental, but medical records at the medical center at Scott Air Force Base, where she had been treated, appeared to indicate the possibility of physical abuse.

An autopsy was performed on the body of Michelle in recent months; it showed Michelle had cracked her ribs and died from internal bleeding. Mary Morgan's other four children who took the witness stand Monday said they could remember nothing to show she was anything but a model mother while they were growing up.

Shostak said Mary Morgan has given her defense team no explanation for why she may have committed the crime or why she decided to plead guilty in the medical center that cries out that this is a case that cries out for incarceration," said St. Clair County Assistant State Attorney Eric Rhein.

Fiss said he would not allow Mary Morgan to be furloughed or allow her time with her family before she begins serving her sentence. Nor would he allow her time served under house arrest to be credited against the five-year sentence.

After the sentencing, Mary Morgan hugged her family members, gave her blue jacket to her husband and left with two St. Clair County deputies.

Rhein said after the sentencing he was satisfied because he would have been surprised if a jury would have found her guilty of murder for a crime committed 37 years ago. Rhein said some of the jurors would not doubt he questioned George Morgan's testimony since he was serving time in prison.

The Morgan family made no comment on the sentence.

SIUE police holding Special Olympics fund-raiser

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

SIUE police officers say they are willing to put up with the name PIGS, all for a good cause.

The officers are inviting bicyclists to come to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville to "Pedal With the PIGS" Saturday's ride through the 2,600 wooded acres of the campus will raise money for the Special Olympics Illinois.

The officers will lead three different bicycle excursions along the roads and bike paths of the university. Several scenic miles of bike trails wind through the campus.

"We're poking a little fun at ourselves with this, our first on-campus event for Special Olympics Illinois," said Regina Hays, a captain with the university's police department. The university's police department has been involved in other fund-raisers for the organization. We've worked as servers in the annual "Cops and Lobsters" event at Red Lobster restaurants and have taken part in the Law Enforcement Torch Run, but we're pleased to be able to support the Special Olympics athletes with their active participation in our beautiful campus.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. for the three rides starting at 10 a.m. A five-mile leisure ride, a long distance ride and a challenging off-road route for mountain bike enthusiasts will be offered.

Bicycle helmets are mandatory. Drawings will be held for an adult 800 single trek bicycle and a youth 220 mountain trek bicycle. The first 100 paid entries will receive a "Pedal With the PIGS" T-shirt.

Funds from the event will benefit the not-for-profit organization that provides year-round sports training and competition for nearly 18,000 children and adults with mental retardation or related developmental disabilities.

Police officers from across the state support Special Olympics Illinois with a variety of fund-raisers. More than 2,500 men and women of Illinois law enforcement carry the torch nearly 1,500 miles before its ultimate destination, the opening ceremonies of the Special Olympics Illinois State Summer Games on June 18 in Normal.

Granite City's Vasiloff scores in final minutes for 2-1 win

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Jessica Vasiloff pulled Granite City's bacon out of the fire Monday night in a non-conference girls soccer match against O'Fallon. Vasiloff scored the game-winning goal with 2 minutes 38 seconds to play in the Warriors' 2-1 triumph at home.

Granite City senior Debra Aaron set up the play, sending a free kick into the box, where Amber Hubert fired a shot that was blocked by the Panthers defense. Vasiloff, a sophomore backfielder, collected the rebound with her back to goal, turned and fired a left-footer into the top corner of the net. "I was open and Coach (Gene Baker) told me to go, so I went," Vasiloff said. "Brandi (Ficker) didn't call it so I just kicked it in. It's really exciting."

Less than two minutes into the second half, Warriors captain Melissa Montgomery was taken down roughly by Panthers senior Liz Simmons. Montgomery flung an arm at Simmons and both girls were sent off with reds.

With Montgomery out of the game and both teams down to 10 a side, much of the Warriors leadership fell to Vasiloff.

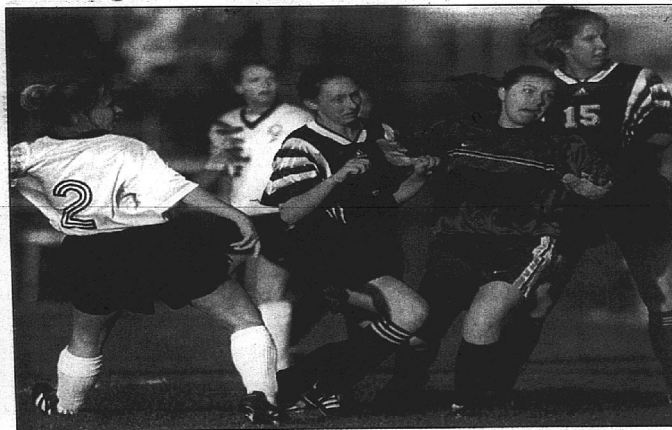

"Coach always tells me we have to pick it up, pick it up, push each other," Vasiloff said. "So I thought, Melissa is out, I might as well do it now, here's my chance. It's a good team win. We pushed hard and stuck with it to the end and we did it as a team."

Montgomery had given the Warriors the lead in the 13th minute when she ran under a long feed by Felicia Moisen that split the O'Fallon defense. Montgomery's blast from 20 yards out beat freshman keeper Jennifer Keim high. Panthers forward Julia Yank evened the score for O'Fallon 17 minutes later. Yank found for an opening at the top of the box and sent a curling shot past Granite City keeper Chelsea Peery to tie the game at 1-1.

The Warriors had a chance to take the lead with 10 minutes to play. Felicia Moisen was taken down in the area and the official pointed to the spot. But Moisen's penalty

Judge steps up in junior season for Warriors

Granite City junior Natalie Judge (2) fires a shot on goal in a recent game for the Warriors, who are 10-2 following a victory against O'Fallon.

While battling with nagging injuries, Judge fills many roles for Granite City

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Granite City High junior Natalie Judge learned her lesson during the first two years with the Warriors soccer program.

"The main thing is that if you are wanting to play, you have to work hard for it," Judge said. "I was used to always getting to play and this year I had to kind of work for it." Judge has had to fight through a series of nagging injuries and minor setbacks this season.

"I pulled my groin muscle at the beginning of the year," Judge said. "I've had problems with my shins and my ankle and knees, just everything. My legs are in a mess."

But Granite City coach Gene Baker still is aware of Judge's talent.

"She is a skillful player who has risen throughout the season as to her importance within the team," Granite City coach Gene Baker said. "She has had to change positions depending upon our needs, but I think she has that kind of ability. She's smart; I had her in the accelerated class, she is coachable."

"The other thing that is changing now is that she is getting into better condition, and as that improves she gets a little stronger. She has pretty good eyes for the game. I just have worked to try to get the maximum out of her, where we need her. As a freshman, she was really a standout. One day, she actually played in a freshman, a junior varsity and a varsity game — all of them. She didn't play the entire games, but that was pretty incredible because we saw some things in her. The key after that becomes what she wants to do with that. Does she really want to go on and utilize that at the college level of soccer? I think she can, it just depends if she wants to commit to that. I'm really super pleased with her right now because she is getting back to displaying that kind of potential. I think right now she is pretty much game-fit. She has had some problems with an injury early in the season and some bouts with infection and the sickness. But she has bounced back and she is doing well."

Balcer wins showdown with Motzel at No. 1

When the Granite City-Collinsville boys tennis match was suspended by rain

BOYS TENNIS two weeks ago, the Warriors waited 3-0. When the match resumed last Friday, Granite City made a furious rally but fell short in a 5-4 Southwestern Conference decision.

Collinsville had picked up a 3-0 edge in singles play but Granite City won two of the three singles tests Friday, including the No. 1 singles match that had been suspended with the first two sets split.

Warriors No. 1 singles player Andy Balcer defeated Collinsville senior Brian Motzel 6-1, 6-7, 6-3.

Granite City's other singles win came at No. 6, where Jarod McMillian posted a 6-2, 6-4 victory against Ryan

Schneider. In doubles action, Granite City's No. 1 pairing of Balcer and Tim Knowlton, beat the Kahoka squad of Motzel and Adam Stults, 6-4, 6-3. "That was a good win for them," Granite City coach Allen Lobdell said. "Those two kids from Collinsville are two good tennis players and should have been able to make a good doubles combination. But my kids stayed right on top of them and handled them nicely in two straight sets. That was a nice win for Balcer and Knowlton."

"Also, the freshman (Matt Davis) and the junior (McMillian) down at No. 3 doubles played pretty well together. They won the first set easily and then lost that second set and had to fight hard in the third set to win (6-3, 1-6, 6-2)."

"Everybody, at that point, when we were playing the Granite City's Jarod McMillian won his No. 6 singles match last week against Collinsville and also was part of a winning doubles team. But the Warriors dropped a 5-4 decision.

Belleville East belts two homers in 8-0 SWC victory

Southwestern Conference co-leader Belleville East

PREP BASEBALL used its power to punch through a windy Tuesday afternoon at home en route to an 8-0 victory against Granite City.

Brad Bone and Louis Beatty each slammed home runs for the Lancers and pitcher Dante Brinkley blanked the Warriors as Belleville East improved to 24-3 overall. The Lancers have just one conference loss to remain tied for first with Edwardsville.

Bone's two-out solo home run in the bottom of the third against Warriors pitcher Scott Schardan opened the scoring.

Beatty's homer was a three-run shot in the third inning to give Belleville East a 4-0 lead.

The Lancers scored four more in the fourth. With the bases loaded, Beatty hit a flared out to right field. Granite City's Teddy Millas made the catch for the second out and unleashed a pristine throw to the plate, but the ball squatted past catcher Matt Mercer and Steve Sommer slid in safely. The Lancers scored three more times in the inning.

Kahoks suffer two setbacks

CHS can't serve up success against Panthers, Lancers

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

Collinsville has hit the heart of its spring schedule, and the influx of games the last 10 days has taken its toll on the Kahoks.

The Kahoks (8-6) started the week with losses to O'Fallon on Monday and Belleville East on Tuesday.

Titus Moore was the lone winner for the Kahoks in an 8-1 loss to the Panthers.

"Titus was the lone bright spot with a comeback victory against (Devendra) Patel, a lefty with a big serve," Collinsville coach Michele Stutts said. "Once Titus figured out how to return the serve curving the opposite direction into his body, he competed well. It was good to see him come back."

Stutts revamped the lineup a bit in the doubles portion of the match. Adam Stutts and Brian Motzel have been paired most of the season at No. 1 doubles, while Moore and Adam Lukowski teamed at No. 2. Against the Panthers, Motzel and Lukowski were paired at No. 1, while Moore and Stutts combined at No. 2.

"The match ended abruptly with O'Fallon winning all three doubles contests," Stutts said. "Farring Motzel and Lukowski at No. 1 proved too much for both of them. Moore and Stutts played loosely too although they did manage to win the first set."

Kevin Alford and David Pierra won at No. 1 and No. 2 singles respectively for the Panthers. After Moore's victory at No. 3 singles, O'Fallon won at Nos. 4-6. Stutts bounced back at No. 1 singles in his match with East's Andy Uhl. He topped Uhl 6-1 in the opening set and 2-1 in the second.

Moore lost a tough match against his opponent at No. 3 singles. "Adam easily handled Andy Uhl, who retired early in the second set from fatigue," Michele Stutts said. "Brian played off-balanced, never really competing with numerous unforced errors and defensive shots."

Titus played very smart, moving his opponent by drawing him in and offensively lobbing with top-spin shots that his opponent was unable to run down. A point here and there and Titus' score could have been reversed."

Motzel and Stutts were paired once against at No. 1 singles, and they beat their East opponents 6-2, 5-7, 6-4.

"No. 1 doubles was fairly sloppy after the first set, which Brian and Adam easily gained complete control. They should have ended it in straight sets," Stutts said. "No. 3 doubles played well with numerous deuce games. It was a great battle to watch. Again, confidence seemed to be a deciding factor when Sung (Kang) and Matt (Welle) gave up a 5-2 second-set lead."

Conference Tournament starts Friday at Belleville East.

"There is just really tough competition in the conference tournament this year," Lobdell said. "This is the first time that we have walked into the conference tournament ranked second from the bottom as far as where we stand on paper. We have lost to Collinsville, Edwardsville, Belleville East and West, and Alton. So it's tough. It will be a great conference tournament. If we aren't ready after this, we won't ever be ready."

Summer camp slated

Special to the Journal

Local prep wrestlers don't have to travel far to participate in a wrestling camp this summer.

Hazel-

wood (Mo.) Central, in north St. Louis County, is home to the "Camp of Champs" wrestling camp, sponsored by U.S.A. Wrestling and International Sports Camps. Clinicians will instruct 25 hours of intense instruction — Monday through Friday, twice a day for a total of five hours per day.

Heading the staff is former Soviet Union national team coach Granit Taropin, who has coached numerous Olympic and World Championships gold medalists.

Other clinicians include Mark Cody, assistant coach at the University of Nebraska, who has coached over 40 NCAA Division I All-Americans at Nebraska; Matt Linland, six-time National Greco-Roman Champion and Bronze Medalist in the 1998 World Championships; and Jerry Kelly, two-time All-American at Oklahoma State University and Big 8 Conference champion.

Instructors with local ties include Tony Purler, a Wentzville (Mo.) High School graduate who was an NCAA Champion at Nebraska and a two-time USA World Team member; Nick Purler, a two-time All-American at Oklahoma State University and Big 8 Conference champion; Craig

Martin, All-American at Miz-zou and head coach of four MSBAA state championship teams at St. Charles (Mo.) West; and Rocky Streh, coach at 1998 MSBAA Class 4A state champion Oakville (Mo.) High School. Hazelwood Central coach Khrist Whelan, a Granite City North graduate and two-time college All-American, is the camp director.

The camp has room for more than 200 wrestlers, ages 8-18. All campers receive a free T-shirt.

Sessions run Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. with a lunch break in between. The "Camp of Champs" costs $130 if received before June 12, or $150 at the door.

Make check payable to: International Sports Camp, c/o Khrist Whelan, 1225 Sunbeam Lane, St. Louis, Mo. The ZIP code is 63137.

For more information, call Whelan at (314) 889-2169.

Golf tournament

The third annual Whitey Herzog Gibault Summer Classic will be June 16 at Annabrig Golf Course near Waterloo.

The 18-hole four-person scramble will cost $600 per foursome, or $150 per golfer. In addition to the opportunity to interact with Herzog and other sports celebrities, golfers will receive a steak dinner at the post-tournament awards banquet/auction. Entry forms can be obtained by calling Gibault coach Steve King at 889-3883.

doubles, knew that the match was on the line, that we had to win all three doubles. So it was great pressure tennis for them to go through. When we were at No. 2 doubles, with (Jason) Woodson and (Eric) Wright, those two kids lost the first set and it looked like the stress had kind of gotten to them. Then they roared back in the second set and won that easily, 6-2. It was just nip and tuck in the third set before they lost."

Lobdell was still pleased with the effort.

"It's one of those matches that you hope high school tennis is all about," Lobdell said. "They get to play under real pressure and they are competitive at the same time. That's when your game really improves. We ended up losing that match, but that's OK. We at least got that good experience; we are better players for the experience. I told the boys afterwards that our schedule is such, the matches are so lopsided most of the time, that we don't get a chance to participate in good matches like this. Whether you win or lose, that's kind of what we hope for during the season, because those are the matches where you learn something. Monthly, after the match is over, we can kind of go over those matches and talk about what worked and what didn't work. But emotionally, too, they learn to handle that pressure. So it was, a good experience for us. The Warriors were scheduled to play O'Fallon on Wednesday and have a makeup date against Highland this afternoon. The Southwestern

"Another big play was the dropped ball at home plate. If they get that one they are still in the game, but we got five runs after that and that was a killer."

The score was 8-0, but that was not indicative of the way Scott pitched." Granite City coach Gus Lignoul said. "The one inning, they had the bases loaded with one out and he gets a fly ball to right field, and we throw the kid out at home. The umpire just started screaming, 'You couldn't handle it, and then they get four runs after what should have been the third out. So that was four runs there. The one run scored when we dropped the ball, but then Scott got behind the hitter and he threw a fastball, grooved a fastball, and the kid hit a double. The next kid hits a home run, so there's four runs right there."

"So the score wasn't indicative of the way Scott pitched. But that's the way our season has been all year. We get the third out of an inning, we don't make the play, and then four runs are scored. That's why they have the record they have and are as good as they are, they take advantage of the mistakes. Up to this point we haven't been able to overcome mistakes that we have

"He just threw strikes and had a nice curveball and didn't hurt himself," Schutzenhofer said. "Whenever he gets into trouble, he always seems to get himself out of it. He really steps it up a notch when runners are on base. I'm very proud of him. He's a great competitor."

Andy Schutzenhofer pitched the final two innings, allowing just one hit.

The Lancers improved to 24-3 on the season. They face Highland at home today and Triad away Saturday before taking on Edwardsville for the

"They played some younger kids last year, so I'm sure they are improved," Lignoul said. "We know that they will be well-coached. I look for the Alton game to be fairly well-matched. But Alton is a team that, because they are in our regional in a couple of weeks, we need to play well against Alton. We are going to play them (today) and then next Thursday, and then there is a real good chance that we could see them in the regionals. So we need to go out and play well against them."

"I took the offseason off this year. I didn't play because I really needed a break," Judge said. "Playing every year since I've been 4 years old, you get kind of tired and burned out, so I decided to take the summer off, just to do what I wanted to do and work."

The Warriors have had to face crippling losses in personnel this year, through

"With Felicia (Mohsen) and Erika (Todd), when they were both gone, we only had two captains, Melissa (Montgomery) and Crystal (Cavins)," Judge said. "It was hard for them to keep everybody together. So I tried to step it up more, to help out more, because that was when we really needed it, with those two gone. Now with Felicia

With the end of the season drawing near and the playoffs approaching, Judge hopes to help her squad in a long postseason run.

"Now is the time we need to click together," Judge said. "I really want to go to state and think this year is a really good chance for us to go. I know a lot of the senior girls are really wanting to go this year. We just need to get some of the younger girls together and get them to be more serious about everything and just really start picking it up now. I think this year would be our chance to go."

In addition to her athletic gifts, Judge's easy smile and outgoing personality helps keep the team loose through adversity.

"She's a great kid," Baker said. "She's upbeat, she's smart, very smart. Having her in class it was interesting because she would lend to

"I think she competes real well and yet keeps it in perspective," Baker said. "The

For O'Fallon, the close loss was nothing new. The Panthers have dropped heart-breaking one-goal decisions all season, most notably to Collinsville and Belleville East.

"We are a little young and we are young in some of the places," O'Fallon coach Dave Ames said. "We have kind of hit a stretch of, I don't know, I'd call it bad luck, but we are not winning games. It's not so much that we are not putting effort into it, it's more that things don't break our way. And for the kids is that we are going to try to fight through it. Just keep playing as hard as you can, carry out the gameplan and try to play our way through it. We'll either get out of it or the season will end, and either way we'll be out there. We just have to try to play as hard as we can and try to get through this thing."

"I thought we played more than even with them, even when we were down to 10 a side. As always, there are some critical calls that take

"Natalie Judge was sick, so that hurt us, not having her here," Baker said. "It really hurt to lose Melissa."

The Warriors, who improved to 10-4-2, will travel to Springfield Saturday to take on Sacred Heart-Griffin.

"We did well to get the 2-1 win," Baker said. "That gives us 10 wins. So that's something that they can be proud of, to get double figures in wins. It was a good team win."

"Saturday, we will be missing Melissa. Kelly Mitchell can't come. Her brother is graduating from college, so she won't be there. Hopefully, we will get Natalie back and we'll see what we can do."

Mateker's Meat & Catering

business

Mateker's, 11442 Concord Village Ave., sells meat, deli items and seafood. Its unit butchers offer full service meat cutting, including deer processing, and Mateker's can provide full service catering.

family

Carole has three daughters, Lisa, Denise, Diana and son Charles Jr. Her husband, Charles Mateker Sr. has retired from the business. Charles Jr. is married to Cheryl and they have two daughters, Chelsey, 11 and Chase, 9. Charles has worked with his father for 17 years and is a union journeyman meatcutter.

civic involvement

Carole is a member of the St. Anthony's Hospital Auxiliary. The shop is a member of the South County Chamber of Commerce, and every fall the Matekers participate in Share the Harvest with deer processing.

comments

The Matekers are proud that the shop has been in business for 75 years and that it is now operated by the third generation of Matekers. May 1999 marks the shop's 30th year in South County.

McGinnis nominated for Brown Group Board

The Board of Directors of Brown Group Inc. has nominated Patricia C. McGinnis for election to the Board by the company's shareholders. The election will be held in May at the annual shareholders' meeting.

McGinnis, 51, is the president and chief executive officer of the Council for Excellence in Government, a national nonprofit membership organization of private sector leaders who have served as senior officials in government.

Brown Group Inc. is a $1.6 billion footwear company with worldwide operations. The company operates the famous Footwear, Naturalizer and F X LaSalle chains of footwear retail stores.

How bad will it be?

So what can you do to fix a VCR or camcorder that is not Y2K-compliant? Nothing, the experts said. What's more, it's unlikely that the manufacturer will take the device back in order to retrofit it with a corrected embedded microprocessor. That would be economically unfeasible to them and their customers. "It would probably be more cost-effective to replace it," Sharp's Levene said.

It makes sense. After all, new, Y2K-compliant equipment is bound to be less costly than gear sold in previous years—that's one aspect of consumer electronics that has withstood the test of time.

We looked at the Year 2000 websites of Panasonic, Sharp, Sony and RCA, and found that the degree of disclosure varied greatly. Panasonic's site was the best, offering a comprehensive listing of its products by category and indicating whether models are compliant and explaining how the problem will affect the operation of those that aren't.

Sharp's site also allows consumers to research the Y2K-readiness of its products. Sony's site merely offers a blanket promise that all of the company's brand-name consumer products are Y2K-ready, with the exception of its CCD-F30 camera and some VCR remote controls sold in Europe and Japan. Thomson Consumer Electronics' RCA site takes no stand on any specific products and optimistically predicts that all of its products will be fine.

Calls to company officials yielded similar results. Kurt Praschak, a spokesperson for Panasonic, conceded that a few camcorder models manufactured in 1997 are not Y2K-compliant. But he promised that all Panasonic and Quasar VCRs are ready for the next millennium.

Nancy Levene, a spokesperson for Sharp,

Hiring sales people is sort of the same. When you have a good sales representative in order to keep your business alive, it does take the fun out of the whole hiring process.

Plan and Strategize
Okay, so you want to schedule a nice relaxing weekend fishing, what are the steps you take?

• Schedule the time for the activity.
• Locate the area in which you are most likely to get positive results. (Ask yourself where are the kind of fish you are looking for most likely to be?)

• Decide on how you are going to attract what you are looking for. Choose the right bait.

• Decide what means you will use to get that bait in front of the right fish.

• Learn from the pros techniques required to catch as many as you attract.

• Last, but not at all least, go fishing when you do not need the fish as food to survive.

You can fish for potential sales representatives the same way. Don't wait until you have to hire someone. Instead, schedule times within your regular activities to go "fishing" on your terms. Follow the same steps as above.

When you find people who would make good sales people for your company, put them in a "people bank" for future contact. Then you can take them to the next hiring step when timing is right for you.

For more information on strategic management, sales training or executive coaching, call Ric Hoerz at 909-0855 or visit web site www.sandlertraining.com.

It's that time of year. Unless you're an Eskimo or live in the northern states and find ice fishing attractive, you are probably just beginning to think about the upcoming fishing season.

As sales managers, we should be thinking about fishing as well. No, not for trout or large mouth bass at the lake, but for good sales people.

How often have you been surprised by one of your sales people saying, "Oh, by the way, I have accepted a position at company XYZ. I'm starting in two weeks." Now you have to find a qualified sales person in less than two weeks so you can train and get him or her up to speed as soon as possible—hopefully before the other sales person leaves.

Smile, it could be worse. You could be like some sales managers that have a "slack" or two in their midst contemplating the whole sales team. Unfortunately you can't fire them because you can't find anyone better to take their place or you just don't want to go through the painful process of hiring.

Fishing for good sales people is usually not as much fun as fishing for rainbow or bass on a lazy sunny afternoon to keep you alive. When fishing becomes that serious and necessary, it's no longer any fun.

That you already know or have heard of the Internet and the World Wide Web (some refer to it as the Web). Put simply, the Internet is the infrastructure of a vast sea of digital information. The World Wide Web is the most popular place people go on the Internet to find different web sites (or places) that have information about an infinite number of subjects because it presents the information graphically.

Okay, back to ISPs. Many larger ISPs are lacking in customer service, especially when it comes to "logging on" to their network.

"Logging on" means gaining access to your account with your ISP. The larger ISPs have been criticized because customers haven't been able to consistently access their service during peak hours—the time when most want to be on the Web surfing around.

At times, people sit at their computer and wait while their computer dial-up modem reveals the number used to get into the larger ISP, while getting a busy signal. Many even after getting access to their service, customers can be "thrown off" for many, many reasons. They are discarded from the system because a lot of people are online. Then, you have to try log on again.

Smaller ISPs have been able to sell themselves on combating this feature alone. You'll often hear "instant access" or "no busy signals." And this, for the most part, is true. You will be able to "surf" the Internet much more conveniently compared to those who use a larger provider.

Why is this the case? With a smaller ISP, there is less traffic. Therefore, they generally have more accessible phone connections. There is also less clutter in their system you have to go through to get connected to the Internet.

The upside to the larger ISPs is the services they offer. Many of the larger ISPs have an expansive amount of services you can tap into when you log on to their service. Things like news, sports, weather, stock quotes and e-mail can be accessed easily and immediately.

You can access similar services with a small ISP, but you might have to use a different modem.

The larger ISPs are selling all-inclusive service, or "information technology consulting company in St. Louis."

ISP is an acronym worth knowing

ISP. Yes, I know, another acronym for something in the crazy and confusing world of computers. It's time to put an end to that confusion. ISP is an important acronym.

Getting on the Internet and the World Wide Web. ISP stands for Internet service provider, a company that provides access to the Internet and the World Wide Web.

An ISP can be big or small, and there are many to choose from, including large national providers or small, local providers.

Choosing an ISP is all about what you want. For many, customer service is the biggest issue when getting started with an ISP—being able to talk with someone and ask them about pertinent questions about the Internet and the World Wide Web.

I'm assuming, of course, that you already know or have heard of the Internet and the World Wide Web (some refer to it as the Web). Put simply, the Internet is the infrastructure of a vast sea of digital information. The World Wide Web is the most popular place people go on the Internet to find different web sites (or places) that have information about an infinite number of subjects because it presents the information graphically.

Walgreens joins Health Resource Network

Catalina Marketing Corporation has announced that its health care division, Health Resource Publishing Company (HRPC), has added Walgreens Co., the nation's largest drug store chain, to its Health Resource Network.

In anticipation of a nationwide rollout across more than 2,800 stores, Walgreens is selectively installing the system that produces the Health Resource Newsletter, a pharmacy-dispensed publication offering condition-specific information to a patient's medication, compliance messages, and advertising for related products. After completion of the Walgreens rollout, the Health Resource Network will be installed in more than 10,000 stores, which would allow the newsletter to reach more than 25 percent of all prescriptions dispensed at retail.

Young, old cut the rug with swing dance lessons

By Mary Ellen Hall
Special to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Like Melvin Byrd, a lot of energy for a 70-year-old, he does his best. Dorothy Adams, 65, is his partner.

Byrd and Adams took up swing a week ago and are now a week of energy by doing dancing at Brown Recreational Center.

It's different, Adams said. "It's fun." Byrd said, "I never dance before." Byrd and Adams are not the only ones. In an effort to keep the center's membership growing, the center has started a swing dance class.

Glasgow, a student at Granite City High School, is a three-time U.S. Open Swing Dance champion. The dynamic dancing duo agreed that swing dancing is fun for people of all ages.

It's popular with the elderly and it's popular with today's youth. Swing has been around a long time. It's making a comeback," Linda McKechnan said.

McKechnan and Megan have been teaching dance at the center from 5:45 to 6:45 p.m. each Monday and Thursday since April 12.

On a recent Monday evening, 18 people representing various age groups paired up to turn, twist and spin on the dance floor as the McKechnans instructed them of fundamental steps.

"They've performed the dance steps without too much difficulty. They've been an easy group to teach," McKechnan said. Dawn Morynburg, 28, Jennifer Depue, 26, Kerri Pauley, 24, and Kristi Glasgow, 24, all of whom live on Perigen Lane in Granite City, danced the entire hour, spinning and stepping to light rock 'n' roll music.

Glasgow said she and her friends wanted to learn to dance so that when they are invited to wedding receptions or to go dancing with their husbands, they can strut their stuff.

"Our husbands will be surprised when we hit the dance floor. I hope they can keep up," Glasgow said with a smirk.

Pauley, trying to keep a straight face, added, "After this, it's time for ballroom dancing."

Frank Beatty, 72, and his wife, Josephine, kicked up their feet during the full hour as well. Frank Beatty said that he literally got a kick out of the dance lesson.

"I've learned to move my feet like I've never moved them before," he said. "I guess I can say I'm a lot more quicker (on my feet) than I used to be."

Swing, like its cousin, the jitterbug, can be a slow- or fast-paced dance with many twists and spins. It first appeared in the late 1920s in St. Louis.

Five Imperial Dance Clubs are located in St. Louis, and Brown Recreation Center is one of two Illinois sites. Brown Recreation Center is located at the corner of Amos and Franklin. For more information on swing dance lessons, call the Granite City Park District at 877-3059.

Megan and Linda McKechnan demonstrate a move.

Acting for TV course offered

Three-week workshop set for June 7-25

Acting for Television, a three-week workshop demonstrating an acting technique that can be very different from working on a theater stage, will be offered for a credit or noncredit from 10 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. three times weekly from June 7 to 25 at Southern Illinois University Edwardsville.

The workshop, offered through the SIUE Department of Theater and Dance, is part of the university's Summer Arts '99 program. The workshop offers training in commercials, television drama and corporate training video styles. It will be performed on camera, videotaped and critiqued. The workshop also includes "cold reading/quick study" techniques for video-acting.

According to SIUE Theater and Dance Professor William Grivna, director of performance for the department, the workshop is open to amateurs as well as professionals. Minimal acting experience is necessary.

"Every summer, this workshop attracts actors from all areas of the business, from those with minimal experience to professional models, from all over the St. Louis Metropolitan Area," Grivna said.

Grivna, a professional actor and director himself, is a member of SAG (Screen Actors Guild), AFTRA (American Federation of Television and Radio Actors) and Actor's Equity. He has taught professional acting for workshops in St. Louis and has directed locally for The New Theater, the St. Louis Black Repertory Co. and Hothouse Theatre Co. Before joining the SIUE faculty in 1977, Grivna was a company member of the Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis and was co-founder of Artists' Enterprise Theatre in San Francisco.

Noncredit registration for the workshop is $325, which includes a nonrefundable $50 deposit.

For more information about the workshop and credit fees, call the SIUE Department of Theater and Dance at 650-2773, or toll-free at (888) 328-5168, ext. 2773.

Tourists find a lot to like in Springfield

Lincoln sites among popular attractions

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Illinois comes by its motto as the "Land of Lincoln" honestly. In no city is that more apparent than in the state capital of Springfield.

There's the Abraham Lincoln home, the Lincoln Tomb, the Lincoln family pew at the First Presbyterian Church and the Lincoln-Herndon law office.

And that's just to start with. Lincoln's legacy permeates many of the other sites in the city he called home for almost 20 years.

"(Lincoln) is one of the most written about figures in all of world history," said Kim Rosendahl, director of tourism for the Springfield Convention and Visitors Bureau. "He is a representation of the American dream, a boy who came from nothing and went on to become president of the United States."

Lincoln's presence still

"Because of his role against slavery, many people view him as the great emancipator. Some people are moved just by being where Lincoln was. It's a very emotional thing."

Kim Rosendahl
Tourism director

impacts visitors from all around the world. While most visitors are from within the Midwest, world travelers come more commonly from England and Germany. One day last month attracted visitors from Australia and the Philippines.

"Because of his role against slavery, many people view him as the great emancipator," Rosendahl said. "Some people are moved just by being where Lincoln was. It's a very emotional thing."

To follow some of the 16th U.S. President's steps, Rosendahl recommends that tourists start at the Lincoln Home Visitor Center, 426 S. 7th St. While there is no charge to tour the home, tickets must be obtained from the visitor center. Tickets are issued for a specific tour time and on a first come, first served basis.

"Once you have your tickets, you know when your tour is and you can go around to some of the other sites," she said.

A national historic site, the Lincolns lived in the home from 1844 to 1861.

Near the Lincoln Home is the Dean House, which features several displays on Lincoln and his family, and the Arnold House, which looks at the history of preservation in the U.S.

Near the Visitor Center is the Oliver Parks Telephone Museum, which offers a display of 117 antique to modern pieces.

A Springfield trip can be both entertaining and educational. One such site is the Old State Capitol.

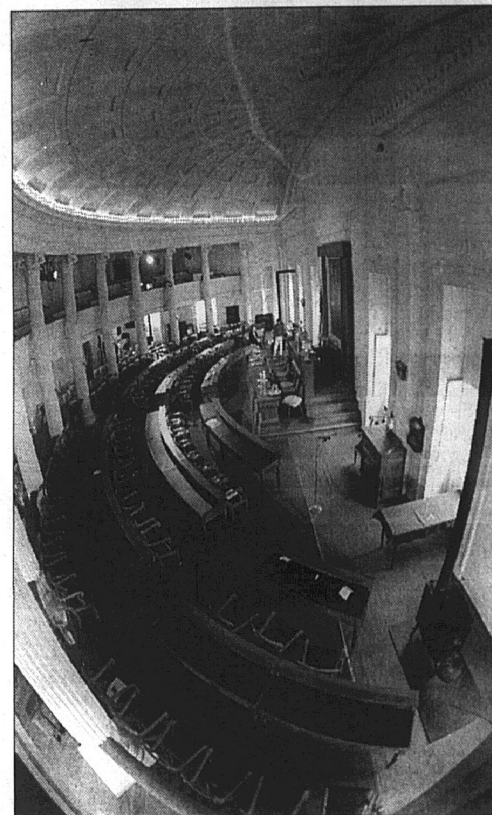

"Mr. Lincoln's World," a costumed interpretive program, features actors in period costumes from the 1850s. These tours run from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays, except during May.

Visitors can watch history in the making at the Illinois State Capitol. The center of state government allows visitors the chance to watch politics in action from balcony level seating when the Legislature is in session.

Another plus for Springfield as a family trip destination is that its sites are free or require only modest donations. Another good point is that the majority of the locations are within a six-square-block area, making it relatively easy to walk from place to place.

Many sites are also camera friendly, allowing even flash photography. An exception is the interior of the Lincoln Tomb, where visitors are also asked to remain silent out of respect for those buried there.

The mood outside the tomb is much less somber. Visitors rub the nose of the giant bust of Lincoln that's there. It's said to bring good luck.

After visiting the Tomb, while still inside the Oak Ridge Cemetery, be sure to visit the Illinois Korean War and Vietnam War memorials. The monuments recognize those Illinois soldiers killed or missing during those wars.

The city has its share of museums, including the Illinois State Museum, the Illinois State Military Museum and the Springfield Children's Museum.

'Pushing Tin' is all over the map

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

"Pushing Tin" takes off well, hits some serious turbulence in mid-flight, but then comes to a soft, cushy landing.

MOVIE REVIEW

In other words, it's all over the map.

The film opens as a promising workplace comedy about a group of air traffic controllers, led by the unflappable Nick Falzone (John Cusack), better known as "The Zone." They work at New York's Terminal Radar Approach Control center, handling thousands of flights daily over the busiest airspace in the world.

Into this odd mix comes Russell Bell (Billy Bob Thornton). Bell is something of a legend due to his ability to "push tin," (keep airplanes moving on schedule) and his erratic nature. He once stood in the turbulence wake of a 747, just to see what it felt like.

And then there's Russell's beautiful, young wife, Mary (Angelina Jolie). Although no more attractive than Nick's own wife, Connie (Cate Blanchett), Nick can't help but be tempted.

When Nick runs into Mary at the grocery store, crying over a dead plant, he tries to comfort her and takes her out to dinner. By the end of the night, they're in bed together.

And here's where the film goes off track. Mary tells Russell about the evening, and then tells Nick she's told Russell. Nick goes into a spiraling descent into madness, suspecting his wife and Russell of infidelity at every turn, and suspecting Russell of trying to sabotage a flight he is on. Eventually his wife leaves him, Russell and Mary leave town and Nick can no longer concentrate on his job — a job where concentration is everything.

Historic homes are also part of Springfield's offerings and include the Dana Thomas House, designed by Frank Lloyd Wright; the 165-year-old Edwards House, now an art gallery; and the Executive Mansion, the third-oldest continuously occupied governor's home in the nation.

Golf, water parks, the Washington Park Botanical Gardens, the Henson Robinson Zoo and the Lincoln Memorial Garden are among other outdoor adventures the city offers.

Rosendahl recommends hotel reservations for those planning a weekend visit. A free family vacation planning guide is available by calling (800) 545-7300. For information on other sites, visit the Springfield Tourism website at www.springfield.il.us/visit.

Theaters rev up for 'The Phantom Menace'

By Barbara M. Cope
Staff writer

Not so long ago, in a galaxy not so far away, movie theaters began planning for crowds for "Star Wars Episode I: The Phantom Menace."

The long-awaited prequel to the "Star Wars" epic opens in theaters next Wednesday, but in response to public demand, theaters began selling the tickets for the first week's shows Wednesday.

"We expect sellout crowds for weeks," said Gary Hickerson, shift manager at Eastgate Cinema in East Alton.

"Other than staffing heavily, there's not a lot we can do to get ready. We've hired and trained a dozen people in the last few weeks."

Eastgate is not alone in providing heavy staffing. In Edwardsville, the movie has created an employment explosion at the new Kerasotes Showplace 12. The theater, which employs 80 people during the winter, began hiring its larger summer staff weeks ago in anticipation of this event.

Tickets now on sale for 'Star Wars' prequel

"We've raised the staff level to 175 people," said Tim Johnson, director of operations for Kerasotes Theatres.

Both theaters also are playing the film on multiple screens, as are some other area theaters.

Showplace will have "Phantom" on three screens, with seating for almost 400 in each auditorium. Eastgate has seating for 300 in each of two separate auditoriums where the film will be shown.

Johnson said the film has generated unprecedented excitement.

"Summer is usually our busy season. The advance ticket sales are here by public demand. We've never had to do that before, but we've had several calls and e-mail wanting this," he said.

He said public demand has been strong since last fall, when the first previews came out.

"People started contacting the theaters as soon as they heard about it. The earliest person to call us was from St. Paul (Minn.). That was in October," he said.

"In Rockford, people have been camping in line since Sunday. In Springfield, they started this morning. They want to be first in line to buy a ticket."

The decision to allow advance ticket sales recently was made by the film's executive producer, George Lucas, who Johnson said was concerned about the possibility of scalpers abusing advance sales.

"To solve (the scalper issue), there is a 12-person purchase limit, and you have to buy them in person at the box office," Johnson said.

To minimize scalping, Wehrenberg Theatres will use a line-ticket system to determine who is served first. An automated ticket phone line informs callers that, "Because this system is completely random, persons waiting in line overnight do not have any advantage in purchasing tickets."

To accommodate the massive audiences, the theaters also are extending their hours.

On the winter schedule, the theaters normally open at 4 p.m. On a normal summer schedule, they open at noon. During the "Star Wars" summer, Showplace will open at 9 a.m. and Eastgate at 10 a.m.

"The first showing will be at 12:01 a.m. on the 19th. After that, until attendance dies off, there will be 15 shows each day — one an hour, every hour on the hour from 9 a.m. until midnight," Johnson said.

Eastgate will have 10 screenings a day.

Johnson said he doesn't expect all the tickets to sell out on opening day. "I can't imagine there being that much demand in Edwardsville, but I'd love to be surprised," he said.

He also said that anyone wishing to avoid large crowds should consider attending morning showings.

Tickets available Wednesday included any showtime from next Wednesday through May 26.

Training set for CPR, lifeguards

The Granite City Park District will conduct training and certification classes for people who would like to become lifeguards or CPR certified. Renewal classes also will be offered.

The classes will be offered by a certified Red Cross instructor. To participate, apply at the Wilson Park office, 2900 Benton.

A required hour-and-a-half pre-course swimming test will be held as a prerequisite for enrollment in the lifeguard training class. A non-refundable $20 deposit is due at the time of enrollment.

Participants must pass the test before being accepted in the certification program. The balance is due upon completion of the test.

Everyone who passes the pre-course will be eligible to participate in the lifeguard training and certification classes. The classes will take place May 19-21, 23-24 and 26-29 at Wilson Park Pool. Cost is $100 for park residents and $125 for non-residents.

The time for each class is 5:30 to 8:30 p.m., except for May 29 which will be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Walk of Fame sets induction

Five will be honored at ceremony Sunday

By Sonia Ahuja
Staff writer

Five native St. Louisans will be honored Sunday with a star on the St. Louis Walk of Fame in the University City Loop.

This year's inductees represent the fields of education, acting, musical performance, sports and politics:

- William Danforth, 73, is a physician who was chancellor of Washington University from 1971 to 1995. During his 24 years as chancellor, he was credited with increasing the university's endowment elevenfold. Danforth is the grandson of the founder of Ralston Purina Co.

- Robert Guillaume, 71, an African-American actor who defied racial stereotypes, grew up in downtown St. Louis and studied music at Washington University. Although he is best known for his role as a butler-turned-lieutenant governor in the television series "Benson," the actor also has earned rave reviews for his stage performances in such productions as "The Phantom of the Opera."

- John Hartford, 61, a songwriter and musician, grew up in University City and attended John Burroughs School. He has made more than 30 albums and has won several Grammy Awards.

- Dick Weber, 69, is a leading ambassador for the sport of bowling. A charter member of the Professional Bowlers Association, Weber joined the Budweiser bowling team in St. Louis in 1955. He was the PBA's Bowler of the Year in 1961, 1963 and 1965, and has won four All-Star titles, 11 All-American Team honors and 26 PBA tournaments.

- Harriet Woods, 71, who began her career in politics in 1967 on the City Council of University City, became the first woman in Missouri to be elected lieutenant governor, in 1984.

The outdoor induction ceremony is set for 2 p.m. Sunday at 6500 Delmar. It is free and open to the public.

Baseball thriving at Busch

33 years later, stadium still looking good

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

On a cool, rainy spring night a couple weeks ago, I went to see the Cardinals play at Busch Stadium for the first time this season.

A fun time was had by all, as far as I could tell.

I got there early so I could have a look at the new Red Schoendienst statue. It's a good one, showing Red turning a double play and is located near the statues of Bob Gibson and Stan Musial that were put up last year. All of them are nice depictions, certainly better than the big Musial statue on the stadium's northeast corner. I then made a point of walking along the lower street level to see the Jack Buck monument, which also is interesting.

Inside, Busch Stadium looks terrific. I know the team owners are angling for a new ballpark, but I would hate for the Redbirds to leave Busch. It's got a grass field now, plus a hand-operated scoreboard. The sightlines always have been excellent. I love the place. I'd live there if they'd let me make an apartment out of some open space.

It was an entertaining game, at least for Cards fans. That was the night St. Louis beat Colorado 7-5, with Darren Oliver getting the win. The trade last year to get Oliver and Fernando Tatis for Royce Clayton and Todd Stottlemyre is looking better and better as time passes.

Other highlights of the evening were Ray Lankford hitting a homer, Joe McEwing hustling around the field and

Stadium still great place for baseball

Mark McGwire going the other way for a double.

I know that people complain about the costs of attending a game, but it is possible to do it without spending all your money. I sat in the cheap seats, ponying up $7 for my ticket. That's about what they charge you to get into a movie. I have to admit that the concession stand prices are steep.

This week's trivia quiz concerns Busch Stadium.

1. The Red Schoendienst, Stan Musial and Bob Gibson statues are located near which of the stadium gates?

2. When the stadium officially opened on May 12, 1966, who did the Cardinals play?

3. What did Casey Stengel say about Busch Stadium when asked about it during his first visit to the place?

4. What year did Cardinal home attendance pass 2 million for the first time — 1967, 1970 or 1974?

5. What is the current official capacity of Busch Stadium — 45,738; 47,738 or 49,738?

6. What year did the Cardinals' home attendance pass 3 million for the first time — 1985, 1986 or 1987?

7. Who got the first hit by a Redbird in Busch?

8. Who is the only player to hit a ball out of the stadium during a game?

9. Mark McGwire has hit the longest homer in stadium history. How far was it, within five feet?

10. Why was the game scheduled for April 10, 1997, postponed?

ANSWERS: 1. Gate 6. 2. The Atlanta Braves. The Cards won 4-3 even though Atlanta's Felipe Alou hit two homers. 3. "It holds the heat well." 4.

1967. 5. It is 49,738 at present, according to the team's media guide. However, the figure seems to change every year as they keep taking out seats. 6.

1987. 7. Mike Shannon, with a first-inning single. He homered later in the game for the first four-bagger by a Redbird at Busch. 8. Mike Laga, who hit a four ball out on the first base side. 9. 545 feet, so 540 to 550 feet is acceptable. 10. That was the last time a game at the stadium was postponed due to snow.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, MAY 13

Life is joyful when you stop worrying and just do. Tensions are dealt with early in the day with head-on confrontation, which is actually more satisfying and peaceful than you imagined. As the moon slips into Taurus tonight, you'll finish what you've started in small, determined steps. Before the night is through, your progress is impressive.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 13). You are a blast to be around and will meet several new supporters this year. This month is perfect for starting new relationships, especially when you keep it light and fun. Next month, you make a decision to fulfill a personal goal. In July, invest in yourself, education or equipment. Love is intense in late summer, and a quick marriage is possible.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). A flirtation with a teacher or employer is dangerous. Avoid breaking an unwritten rule. Challenge yourself to do your best work on the job. Family members support an important decision. A check arrives.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Put your best foot forward at a social gathering, and a very influential person takes note. A spending spree isn't necessary to celebrate a victory. A raise or promotion is likely. Take time out with a partner tonight.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Get some much-needed rest after a strenuous few days. An astounding revelation gives you new insight into the motives of a family member. A younger sibling seeks your advice. A lover is especially attentive.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Invest in a pal's pet project. You are at ease with a spouse's or lover's family. Discharge a financial obligation at once. You have special luck with interviews now. Others infringe upon your free time, unless you say no.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Quiet diplomacy works miracles. Marriage plans bring total bliss. You find love while pursuing a new hobby or sport. Vent anger now, or it will build up. A break in the routine is essential to revive romance and creativity.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Constant disputes are confusing to a child. Be philosophical about a minor loss. Notify a spouse or family member about new financial arrangements. Relationship turmoil is almost over. Don't give up prematurely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). A mini-vacation is essential to revive creativity. You deserve to be paid more. Speak up to those in authority. Dreaded obligations turn into fun this afternoon. A Sagittarius will understand when you explain what you really want.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Aggressive action, calls and surprise visits help you get new jobs, promotions, raises and publicity. There is luck through school-related sports. A leisure activity could yield cash. Read between the lines of contracts or letters.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Fast action saves nearly lost accounts, romances and money. Renew an old friendship. Make a decision based on concrete evidence. Unconventional relationships develop into the most marvelous liaisons.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). A change in your game plan allows you to rise and meet any occasion. Pleasant events around your home can be attributed to the grand example set by a Capricorn or Taurus. Nurture positive emotional ties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Remind friends of special days. Forgetfulness is rampant, but if you can get every one together, sweet new memories are made. Set aside your differences with a lover. A Pisces leads you to a fantastic deal.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You'll receive more money than you expected from a business investment. Suppress the urge to reprimand a sweetheart too severely or too soon. A lover or date may ask personal questions you choose not to answer.

Fun awaits thee at weekend Renaissance Faire

By Ronnie Roy

Renaissance St. Louis will lower the drawbridge Saturday for the first of three weekends of 16th-century fun.

The Greater St. Louis Renaissance Faire opens at 10 a.m. Saturday at Rotary Park in Wentzville. About 10 acres of parkland have been transformed into a French village of the 1500s.

"It's something that evolved out of a fencing club I belonged to," said Doug Glenn, president of Renaissance St. Louis, the non-profit organization holding the event. "I've had a dream of establishing a Renaissance Fair in the area for some time."

Glenn had organized and run similar festivals on a smaller scale for charity events. When other members of the fencing club showed interest, the work began. In May of last year, they incorporated the non-profit organization.

"We hit as many fairs as we could, to see how they run," Glenn said. "And we put together a seven-person board of directors and a staff." They then went about finding a home. They checked out a half-dozen sites before settling on Rotary Park.

"When we met with Wentzville and saw the site proposed, we loved it. They welcomed us and have been great to work with," Glenn said.

Renaissance St. Louis has a 10-year agreement to use the property. The first year they are using 10 acres, and Glenn hopes over time to expand to the entire 30 acres.

"As time goes on, we hope to build more permanent structures on the site, to evolve into a whole 16th-century village," he said.

Plans also call for the event to go longer as time goes on. "We hope to expand to six weekends as we get established. Other fairs are up to seven or eight weekends," Glenn said.

"Kansas City gets around 20,000 visitors each year. In five years I can easily see us reaching the Kansas City market," he said. Kansas City's festival runs seven weeks.

Visitors to the event will find costumed villagers, nobles, peasants and merchants; jousting knights on horses; stage shows featuring comedy and musical acts; a special program for children; exotic foods and handmade crafts; and games of skill such as "drench a wench" and "storm the castle."

Groups from Kansas City, Iowa, Ohio and Texas will come to participate in the festival.

"There are 90 large-scale Renaissance fairs across the country. We've heard from a lot of people excited that St. Louis is now on the circuit. For some of these crafters and performers this is how they make their living, going from fair to fair," Glenn said.

The Greater St. Louis Renaissance Faire will have a different theme each weekend: — The fair opens with the Festival of Wine and Royalty on May 15 and 16. A festival is being held in the village to celebrate the news that King Francois, Queen Eleanor and the Royal Court are about to visit. Special wine tastings will be held throughout the weekend. The Jolly Rogers, a pirate comedy show from Kansas City, will perform. — May 22 and 23 feature a Celtic Festival, complete with an exhibition and open competition of Highland Games. Games include the kaber toss (long pole tossed end over end for accuracy), sheaf toss (20-pound weighted sack tossed for height with a pitch fork) and the Braemar stone (18-pound or 28-pound standing throw for distance). Events start at 11 a.m. on the jousting field, awards ceremony at 4:30 p.m. Entry fee is $5 in addition to fair admission.

— May 29, 30 and 31 is the Festival of Love. "We have a couple that were planning a Renaissance-themed marriage, and they're going to have it there," Glenn said. "It will be a real wedding and everyone is invited to attend. As part of the show the previous weekend, the groom will ask the king for her hand in marriage."

The Greater St. Louis Renaissance Faire will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. One-day tickets are $10 for adults, $8 for seniors and students, $6 for children 12 and under. Two-day tickets are $16 for adults, $12 for seniors and students, $10 for children 12 and under. Coupons for $2 off admission are available at several businesses in Wentzville, Glenn said. Tickets also are available at the gate or call Metrotix at 534-1111.
